

Name: Hannah Benjamin

Poster or Platform Winner: Poster Presentation

Title of winning presentation: @AACAnatomy Twitter Account Goes Live: A Sustainable Model for Outreach of Professional Societies

Current position:

1st year medical student, Class of 2021, University of Colorado School of Medicine

Advisor:

Danielle Royer, PhD

Undergraduate/Graduate degree (previous)

B.A. Human Biology, Stanford University, 2013

MS Modern Human Anatomy, Department of Cell and Developmental Biology, University of Colorado Anschutz Medical Campus, 2017

Hometown:

San Diego, CA

Hobbies and Special Interests:

Volleyball, yoga, running, elementary school science outreach, exploring the Colorado outdoors and trying to become a foodie

What would you like to see yourself doing 10 years from now?

In 10 years, I plan to be a practicing physician in the field of pediatrics, pursuing a fellowship in a sub-specialty that allows me to combine my passion for anatomy and drive to change the trajectory of children's health and overall wellness. As a student with several incredible mentors that have supported my personal growth and interest in medicine, I hope to stand as a mentor to future medical students through academic medicine, as well as be a role model for children by continuing my involvement in science outreach in underserved schools and communities. In addition, I would like to remain an active member of the AACA and continue to contribute to the anatomical and health sciences community!